The College of Agriculture and Natural Resources is proposing to change the name of Maryland Cooperative Extension (MCE) to University of Maryland Extension (UME).

JUSTIFICATION/REASONS/RESOURCES (Briefly explain the reason for the proposed action. Identify the source of new resources that may be required. Details should be provided in an attachment.)

Adding “University of” will ensure that we have a stronger stated linkage with the University of Maryland, which will be a benefit from the university perspective as well as for the general public. There is strong name recognition with the University of Maryland, and this addition will be of great benefit for building branding and value. In addition, it is recommended that we drop the word “Cooperative” from our name because the general public does not recognize nor understand this term.

Rationale and Justification for Program Name Change

The College of Agriculture and Natural Resources is proposing to change the name of Maryland Cooperative Extension (MCE) to University of Maryland Extension (UME). This recommendation is based upon a MCE Marketing Task Force report which was chaired by Theresa Flannery, Former Assistant VP for University of Maryland Marketing and Communication. The Task Force consists of MCE faculty from Academic Departments, Regional Education Centers, County Offices, as well as the University of Maryland Eastern Shore (task force members are noted below).

The MCE Marketing Task Force recommends that we add “University of” to our name. From an organizational marketing standpoint this makes a great deal of sense. Adding “University of” will ensure that we have a stronger stated linkage with the University of Maryland. This will be a benefit from the university perspective as well as for the general public. There is strong name recognition with the University of Maryland, and this addition will be of great benefit for building stronger branding and value. Changing the name to University of Maryland Extension will help increase the program’s overall identity and recognition internally within the University of Maryland system as well as externally with stakeholders and the general public.

In addition, it is recommended that we drop the word “Cooperative” from our name because the general public does not recognize or understand this term. Over thirty other peer Extension institutions have omitted the word “Cooperative” from their name.

This proposed change is only a name change; it will not cause any changes regarding educational outreach work that is conducted by MCE on behalf of the University of Maryland. This name change will not cause any structural or management changes within the organization.

The proposed name change has been discussed and reviewed by the MCE Faculty and Staff Advisory Committee, the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, and it was presented at the MCE Annual Conference on April 9, 2008 to all faculty and staff.

Dear Dr. Place:

I have been in communication with Dr. Henry Brooks concerning the proposed name of the Maryland Cooperative Extension to the University of Maryland Extension. The initial concerns with this change in name has been discussed and resolved. We can see the value and better connection for both land grant universities. Thus, the University of Maryland Eastern Shore supports and endorses this name change.

Sincerely,

Gladys G. Shelton, Ph.D.
Interim Dean
