The National Scholarships Office (NSO) works with faculty and staff to assist eligible University of Maryland students with developing the necessary tools and insights to compete for national scholarships such as the Rhodes, Marshall, Mitchell, Gates Cambridge, Truman, Udall, Goldwater, Fulbright, National Science Foundation and others.

This website contains the information you need to get started on your scholarship journey. Students are welcome at any point in their academic career, and are encouraged to plan ahead to prepare the strongest possible scholarship applications.

We do not award scholarships, nor do we handle internal University of Maryland funds. Students interested in learning more about these funds see: University of Maryland scholarships page.

Attention College Park students! If you have received a national scholarship, fellowship, or award, please send an email to the National Scholarships Office with your name, major, the name of the award, and your academic year (e.g. sophomore, junior, senior, graduate, etc).
